PYROTECHNICS FOR ENCAMPMENT WEEK

Salt Lake, Aug. 4.—A spectacle much as though old Ensign peak, under the guidance of a Vulcan, had suddenly assumed volcanic proportions, rivaling the famous Vesuvius, will be seen in the vicinity of the old mountain Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of encampment week.

Tuesday night, when sufficient darkness has obtained, the gigantic steel guns of the Palm Fireworks company saluted to announce over the city the commencement of the program. First a great prismatic fire of brilliant varicolored compound will illuminate Ensign peak and the surrounding country, making the hills as light as midday. Then will come a long series of the most up-to-date creations in the pyrotechnic line. Of these, the most unique feature will be the ascension of twelve great fire balloons which will illuminate the entire valley with magnesium lights of great power.

A national shield depicted in the aerial shower of stars is also promised as one of the very latest novelties.

All of the street parade except the steam calliope had passed on its way to town. When the calliope started to play, the horse leaped into the air, broke from the buggy to which it was attached, and dashed behind the lead team on one of the circus vans, and frightened the team of six horses.

There was great confusion when the circus team swung around and into a great crowd of spectators standing on the corner, and in the stampede that followed many persons were trampled down.

Charles Smith, an employee of the circus, caught the frightened horse. The teamster on the van held his animals and soon had them under control.
